 Dear Gary: Please send me the Wilson great use to our family waiting for

 Yours truly,

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering after a year's Restlessness to Perfect Health.

For several years, Mr. E. A. McManis, a well known citizen of St. Louis, Mo., was afflicted with dyspepsia. He was unable to eat, and his health was rapidly declining. He was treated by several physicians, but without success. He was then advised to take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for a few days, he began to feel better. He was able to eat, and his health was improving. He continued to take it for several weeks, and he was finally cured of his dyspepsia.

He writes: "I feel like a new man. I am able to do my work, and I am in good health. I am very grateful to Hood's Sarsaparilla for what it has done for me."

CAST ON THE WORLD:

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

Had the poor wife suspected the purpose of that military journey, terror and alarm would have been added to the devotion which she felt as she waited for her husband along the dusty road to a destination of which she was ignorant, but she never dreamed that anything but a happy return would be hers. The husband, however, was not the same man who had been at a distance from the Glasgow when the robbery was committed. The journey she was not taking was a regular employment in her husband's design—a modified compromise of his disagreement. It saved both from an interview which must have been wrought with monstrous issues, and her simple sense would have looked on it as no other light.

But Lord Egglehart had something far beyond this in view. The purpose of the interview was not accomplishing much. Practically it was pretty nearly the same as if Charles and Harvott had come her husband and been told by her of the secret marriage, because her removal from the Glasgow must be to the residence of the man that she refused to give the name which Lord Egglehart undertook she could give that to such private marriage had taken place. The inference they would draw was plain and inevitable, and they were confirmed in their suspicion, but so long as Lady Egglehart was kept out of their way, they could do nothing against him. They must have proof of the marriage, and this proof they could obtain only from her husband. By keeping her husband in permanent seclusion, or by putting her where—even if her permanent seclusion was broken in upon—the state must be deprived of evidence, he would be able still to keep them at bay.

There is a curious diversity of taste among smokers as to the kind of pipe they prefer. Some like the old pipe bowl, others prefer the briar root, and some the meerschaum, some must have their pipe well smoked before they can enjoy it, others again must have a new one, and throw it away whenever it becomes a little old. But though this diversity of taste among them is curious, it is not all our fault that there is a substantial unanimity among them about the kind of tobacco to use. Experience has proved to them that the "Myrtle Navy" brand of Meerschaum is the genuine article.

A PROMPT RESULT.

Dear Sir, - Two years ago I was very ill with influenza, and tried many medicines, but did not get well until I was advised to try B.B.B. After using half a bottle, I was actually cured.

COMING EVENTS.

Coming events are foretold by a hacking cough, night sweats, pain in the chest, etc. Arrest its progress at once by taking Hagar's Peppine, which never fails to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, hoarseness, etc., and even in confirmed consumption affords great relief.

Mrs. Mary Pearson, Hawley, writes: "For about three months I was troubled with fainting spells and nervousness which was growing worse, and would attack me three or four times a day. At last my husband purchased a bottle of Hagar's Peppine, which I commenced using, and in a few days I was completely cured, and I have not since had a fainting spell."

It is the brightest, not the darkest, that we see when we look back.
Once taken, it is a relief.

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW HARBOR.

He related minutely all the proceedings of the process, the making of the keys, the sending of them, the being sent back for alterations, the receiving them, the fact that the robbery was committed, and finally the return of the three long keys to the hands of the body, at which point the evidence of the other witnesses came in to supplement and thus raise the highly luminous testimony of the locksmith.

When Scotland left the witness box he returned to pass close to where MacKulloch stood.

"Curled tighter," he said the latter through his white compressed lips.

"Glad to help it," returned the locksmith. "When they got me here I was bound to tell all."

The evidence was now nearly finished, and as MacKulloch had no witness on his side, the advocate began to address to the jury. Then the judge summed up and the jury retired to consider their verdict.

"Most people in the court thought that an unnecessary expense. That the case had been made out against the robbery, and it did not need it."

The evidence was now nearly finished, and as MacKulloch had no witness on his side, the advocate began to address to the jury. Then the judge summed up and the jury retired to consider their verdict.

The Surprise.

READ the directions on the wrapper.

Commence by dipping one of the articles to be washed in a tub of lukewarm water.

Then roll in a tight roll, put back in the tub under the water and let it stay there half an hour.

After soaking for this time, rub lightly on the wash-board; the dirt will drop out.

Then wash lightly through a blue-water rinse water, which will take out the suds.

Next time through a lukewarm water. (Use scarcely any bluing. SURPRISE takes the place of bluing.)

Writing them; hang up to dry without boiling or scalding or any more rubbing.

The wash will come out sweet, clean, white, and will take out the suds.
